Figures include the Military, Ophthalmology, and Urology Matches. Figures do not include OMFS students because they do not participate in a match process. Figures do not include the preliminary or transitional year for students who matched in a PGY 2 position in their specialty. The Emergency Medicine total reflects two students who were chosen outside of the regular match for a new EM residency in Ocala that is scheduled to be accredited by the RRC in early April.

Brian Harfe, PhD. Associate Professor Department of Molecular Genetics & Microbiology is one of five recipients of the UF 2017 Online Education Excellence Award. Dr. Harfe will be awarded at the spring 2017 Interface Conference to be held April 20, 2017 for his imaginative or innovative approach for his ZOO3603 Evolutionary Developmental Biology course.

Mentoring Survey!

Mentoring provides many positive outcomes and is a crucial element for individual success. The Office of Faculty Affairs and Professional Development is currently evaluating the College of Medicine mentoring policy as we strive to improve the mentoring experience for mentees and mentors. We are launching a brief survey to identify current participation and satisfaction with mentoring in the College. Please participate in this confidential survey whether you are a mentor or a mentee, both or neither.

The survey will take no more than 5-10 minutes of your time.

THIS QUESTIONNAIRE IS ANONYMOUS AND WILL BE KEPT CONFIDENTIAL.

Faculty Opportunity!

Southeastern Conference (SEC) Visiting Faculty Travel Grant Program

- Sponsor: Southeastern Conference Academic Consortium
- Award Amount: up to $2,500
- Internal Deadline: May 26, 2017
- Eligibility: Faculty

The Southeastern Conference (SEC) Visiting Faculty Travel Grant Program is intended to enhance faculty collaboration that stimulates scholarly initiatives between SEC universities. This initiative gives faculty from one SEC university the opportunity to travel to another SEC campus to: exchange ideas; develop grant proposals; conduct research; consult with faculty and/or students; offer lectures or symposia; or engage in whatever activities are agreeable to the visitor and host unit.

The University of Florida can select faculty members to receive 2017-2018 grants up to $2,500 each. Travel grant funds may not be used for non-travel-related expenses (e.g., books, supplies, computer software, honoraria, food for other than traveler, etc.), and it is not permissible to use funds for support/research staff.

Any use of the funds should be directly for the faculty member with the intent of lessening the financial burden of personal accommodations in travel (e.g., travel, lodging, per diem, etc.). Travel dates for these visits must be between August 1, 2017 and July 16, 2018.

The faculty member will contact a host unit that he or she wishes to visit to determine that unit’s receptivity and availability. The selected faculty members will be responsible for arranging coverage of their duties during their absence. This requires Department Chair approval. After the visit, the faculty member will submit a brief report, the outcomes of the visit. This report is sent to his or her Department Chair and then forwarded to the Provost’s Office.

Note that two COM faculty were among the award winners for 2016:

- James R. Clugston, COM, Community Health & Family Med, Host: University of Georgia
- Katherine M. Edenfield, COM, Community Health and Family Med, Host: University of Georgia

Reminder about patient parking vouchers at UF Health

Our goal is to provide patients with the best possible care and positive experience. On the Archer Road health campus, several years ago we took a major step in that direction by providing free patient parking. Facilitating patient parking is instrumental to improved patient access and convenience to our hospitals and on-site outpatient services.

Offering free patient parking is a strategic decision and the right thing to do. However, it comes at a considerable cost to the organization. With the reality of limited parking space on the main campus, our priority must be to our patients and visitors.

Faculty and staff parking garages and lots are offered in several locations on campus. Unfortunately, some staff have inappropriately obtained and/or used free patient parking vouchers for their own purposes. Please know that disciplinary action may be taken for serious violations when staff members misuse the parking voucher system.
When members of our workforce abuse the parking system by taking patient parking vouchers for their own use, they compromise valuable access by patients and families. In addition, each voucher has a defined monetary value and we consider misuse of the vouchers a serious theft.

Faculty, residents, staff and volunteers must not use patient parking vouchers for their own use, unless they are an on-site patient themselves when they use the voucher.

You can purchase campus parking decals from UF Transportation and Parking services at http://parking.ufl.edu/.

Thank you for your attention to this serious matter. With quality care, hospitality and service foremost in our minds, we must give our patients and their loved ones the priority and convenience of easily accessible parking.

Biomedical research scientists face numerous challenges early in their career. This seminar series is designed to provide practical advice for PhD and dual degree scientists who will be managing and leading research teams of their own. The target audience is postdoctoral research trainees, advanced graduate students, and junior faculty. These seminars are designed to complement the book “Making the Right Moves: A Practical Guide to Scientific Management for Postdocs and New Faculty”, which is available online from the Howard Hughes Medical Institute at:
